This Week in Wabash

Hello, Wabash,

I hope your week has gotten off to a great start. As I look out my window I see snow. Or maybe it's rain. Or maybe it's both. Who can even tell anymore? I wish it would just make up its mind.

Anyway, this week I wanted to share two exciting pieces of news and invite you to help me prepare.

First, yesterday, I received a call from the Statehouse informing me that Indiana Secretary of State Holli Sullivan would be visiting Wabash on the morning of Thursday, Dec. 2 to visit the Wabash County Clerk's Office. Afterward, she and her staff will be visiting the Plain Dealer's office for a sit-down interview before leaving town.

Second, on the morning of Thursday, Dec. 9, I will be traveling to the Statehouse in Indianapolis to conduct a 15-minute one-on-one in-person end-of-the-year interview with Gov. Eric Holcomb. I am extra excited for this opportunity because since the pandemic hit Indiana in March 2020 I have participated virtually in dozens and dozens of televised press conferences with Gov. Holcomb and other state officials, but this will be the first time I will have the opportunity to do so in person.

I will be taking photos and writing stories after both of these interviews, so you'll get to find out what we talked about afterward. But, beforehand I wanted to let you in on the process. If you have a question you'd like me to ask Secretary Sullivan or Gov. Holcomb, please email me back and let me know by 5 p.m. today. I can't promise I'll ask every one, but I would appreciate your input. It can be about anything about their offices, of course, but if there's a local issue or concern you'd like me to ask them about that would help me greatly.

I look forward to hearing back from you, our readers, about what is on your minds. I firmly believe that the job of our elected officials is to be accountable to their constituents.

I hope you have a great rest of your week. Stay dry if you can.

Best,
Rob
